COLD WAVE GRIPS WIDE AREA

Bitter, biting, record-shattering cold that made pedestrians gasp for breath gripped Pennsylvania today, causing widespread suffering and distress.

Record-low temperatures were reported in every section of the state as the frigid wave arrived on the heels of a miniature blizzard that once more piled snow in drifts on the highways.

Scores of motorists and bus passengers narrowly escaped death from exposure on the highways until rescued from their stranded vehicles.

Several score automobiles and four buses were trapped in a two-mile long snow drift on McMurray Road, south of the Allegheny-Washington county line, but although many persons suffered severely from the exposure, none was reported dead. Police were quickly mobilized by Allegheny county to rescue the stranded motorists.

Walter Schub, 36, a patient at the Mayview Hospital for the Insane near Pittsburgh, was found frozen to death in a shed.

Truck and Auto Crash; Four People Are Hurt

A Bristol child and three others, were injured when a truck and automobile crashed at Oxford Valley yesterday. Willa Ashton, 16, of 291 West Franklin street, Morrisville, and Mrs.
Willard Curran, 58, Linesboro, Md., who were injured, are reported to be in fair condition at Mercer Hospital.
Both are suffering from lacerations and bruises and Mrs. Curran also suffered shock. Betty Dietrich, 13, of Bristol, and Dorothy Ashton, sister of Willa, suffered cuts and bruises and were treated at the scene of the accident by Dr. Henry M. Lovett, Langhorne.

The car in which they were riding and which crashed with a truck operated by Fred C. Neixner, Westfield, N. J., was driven by Howard Leighow, 22, Bristol. Neither driver was injured.

Corporal Evans and Patrolman Jones, of the Oxford Valley Highway Patrol, investigated.

Spend $712,000 On Flood "Boondoggling" Project

PHILIPSBURG, Jan. 23—Six months ago Phillipsburg asked for a $712,000 WPA appropriation for flood control of Moshannon Creek, which has not had a flood within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

The project was approved by Washington and part of the sum was allocated to get the job under way. The first step in the flood control of gentle old Moshannon was the digging of ditches for the purposes of draining a large swamp, a breeding place for mosquitoes.

The ditches were partly dug and then the money ran out. The project is still awaiting more funds.

Meanwhile, the ditches have fallen in and are clogged with dirt, so that mosquitoes have not been incommoded even a little bit.

DIET FADDISTS PAY WITH THEIR HEALTH

Rigid Slimming Diets May Cause Tuberculosis, Blindness and Even Death

FOR POUNDAGE LOSS

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(INS)—Dietfaddists—men, as well as women—are actually losing health by the pound in misguidedly following semi-starvation reducing systems. Blindness, insanity and even death are the price many may have to pay for trying unscientific diets and other unsafe "anti-fat" fads.

The Hollywood 18-day diet, the new grape diet, and other such "humming bird diets" that fail to provide enough food to sustain health, are exposing thousands to the inroads of tuberculosis and other diseases.

The "lean meat reducing system" and "eliminating diets," as well as similar fads, are either poisoning their victims or leaving them with shrunken stomachs and the inability to eat at all.

So-called "reducing" substitutes contain laxatives that deny the body the benefit of food eaten or include dinitrophenol, a chemical that "burns up" food too rapidly—and healthy tissues along with it—and has already caused several deaths and many cases of blindness.

These are the conclusions reached by the American Medical Association as well as governmental and individual health experts, who are alarmed by the still widespread use of ill-advised slimming methods.

There is danger, cautions Dr. John L. Rice, New York City's Health Commissioner, in losing more than a quarter of a pound a day—if one must reduce.

Louis Wolheim, Renee Adoree, Barbara La Marr and Magda de Bar-zelly, Hungarian actresses, are listed as "some of those who risked their lives, and lost, in their unwise efforts to change the contour of their figures."

Lilyan Tashman was another movie star whose death has been ascribed to reducing methods.

In one out of about 10 cases, according to Dr. Rice, overweight is due to glandular diseases. Merely eating less is futile for such persons, and health experts advise treatments by experienced physicians.

Diseases which doctors say may be brought on or aggravated by dangerous reducing methods are tuberculosis, catarrh, colitis, pneumonia, heart failure, stomach trouble, "floating kidneys," anemia, bone and tooth ailments, and various nervous conditions.

A new disease, called hyperinsulin-ism, has also resulted from dangerous reducing fads. Victims have many varied nervous symptoms from neu-roses of the stomach and heart to convulsions and insanity.

All of these dangers can be avoided, according to Dr. Rice and other authorities, by dieting sensibly, cutting down only slightly on food, and not omitting milk, meat, fruit and vegetables. It takes a whole quart of milk it was pointed out, to be as fattening as five pieces of candy.

EDWARD VIII IS FIRST BACHELOR KING TO ASCEND THRONE OF ENGLAND SINCE GEORGE III IN 1760; GRAUSTARK ILLUSION IS MADE FINITE AND REAL

Serious, Earnest Side of Youthful Ruler Shown When He Insisted on Fighting for His Beloved Empire—Has A Many-Sided Personality — Beloved By His Subjects In All Parts of the Globe.

(International News Service herewith presents the first instalment of a colorful and authoritative life history of the new ruler of the British Empire, King Edward VIII., written by James Francis. In this story the career of the 41-year-old monarch is taken up in detail from his boy-hood in the royal palaces of London to his dramatic ascension to the throne upon the death of his father, George V., on Monday night.)

By James Francis

(Copyright, 1936, by I. N. S.)

Quietly, almost apologetically and, indeed, pretty much as he had lived, a tired old man sighed, closed his eyes against the strained and anxious faces about him and did not breathe again.
Outside the gates of Sandringham, country palace of the Royal House, the simple, homespun people of the provinces shuffled uneasily and peered up at the lighted windows.

Miles away in London, thousands stood in the streets and quietly waited for the end. It came for George Fifth of England a few minutes before midnight on Monday. He had been a good king; a kindly and humane king. But he was dead.

George, R. L., monarch of a colossal empire of 450,000,000 people, had gone the way of his fathers. Edward, R. L., was the new King of England; Edward the Eighth, great grandson of Queen Victoria and lineal descendant of the Tudors, the Stuarts and the Plantagenets. The blood of William the Conqueror was in his veins. He had been Edward Albert Christian Andrew Patrick David, Prince of Wales.

And, with that, the world suddenly forgot death and treated itself to a romantic quiver. Magically, incredibly, the graustark illusion was made finite and real; Graustark, the mythical kingdom where royalty was always young and gallant and dashing and handsome. Here, at last, was a King who fulfilled utterly the royal tradition.

Unmarried, he is the first bachelor king to ascend the throne of England since George the Third in 1760. Slim, athletic, his regular features remain strangely boyish at 41. Perhaps it is the candid and wistful set of his eyes, perhaps the queer little quirk that comes and goes at the corners of his mouth. Perhaps it is only that he has so superbly lived his part from the cradle to the throne. Whatever the cause may be, the effect is unmistakable.

To every woman he is the eternal boy, to every man, the ideal.

"I have four brothers," he said quietly to Kitchener when England's great soldier tried to dissuade him from enlisting in the World War on the plea that the person of Britain's heir was sacred. That was the serious, earnest side of "Edward, P." as he officially signed himself in those days.

But this is a many-sided personality, the suddenly grave young man who now sits upon the throne. The practical citizen, deeply interested in industry and politics, has emerged in recent years from the princely tradition. His adventurous spirit has been curtailed and, in fact, subjected to his sense of obligation.

When, for instance, there was audible comment in the House of Commons over his breakneck performances in steeplechase racing, he explained, perhaps a little ingenuously:
"The horse falls and, of course, I fall with it."

But he took the comment as a pre-emptory order from his people and never rode under colors again, contending himself with hunting, water sports and his golf at which he is a consistent scorer in the 80's. "His and dancing are his passions and, in both, he shows the tremendously human touch that somehow makes him kin to all the world. Once, on his last visit to America some years ago, he danced the whole night through with one partner after another, apparently with no thought to their possible identities.
He seems to be sincerely fond of Americans and generally follows Gene Sarazen through the rounds of the British open championship.

On another occasion, he took part in a foursome with Bea Gottlieb, a New York girl of no social pretensions.

Deep down, too, is a fun-loving, puckish strain, developed in boyhood when he and his brother, "Bertie," now the Duke of York, used to hurl wet sponges down upon the guests during state occasions at Buckingham Palace and exhibited again years later during a tour of New Zealand. There in the dead of night, he crept down to the "call board" in the lobby of the hotel and left this message, to the ultimate discomfort of his friend and companion:

"Please call Lord Mountbatten at 5
a. m."

Innate shyness is there also, an instinctive aversion to ostentation.

"He would think it was awful 'side,' father," was his quiet objection, when old King George suggested that he should perhaps present his classmates with something in the way of a royal souvenir, upon his graduation from Osborne, the naval school.

But uppermost and always present is his sense of obligation to the British public.

"Ich Dien," (I serve), was not only his motto, but an actual creed at York house, where he lived so many years.
No commoner, however lowly, was ever turned from the doors without an audience, either with a member of his

ORGANIZING TO RAISE SALVATION ARMY FUND

Need $160,000 for Maintenance Fund During 1936,
It Is Estimated

$50,000 IN THE SUBURBS

Organization of the suburban divisions of the 1936 Salvation Army Maintenance Fund which opens January 31st with a quota of $160,000 is swiftly being completed under five suburban chairmen, who will enlist the help of nearly 1000 persons in the several counties of the metropolitan area.

The Main Line Division is being organized under the chairmanship of A. J. Drexel Paul, Delaware County under James E. Malone, Bethlehem Pike under the leadership of Warren Ingersoll; York Road by Harold C.
Pike; and Bucks County under the chairmanship of J. Carroll Malloy, Jr., Doylestown.

Of a total goal of $160,000 the campaign leaders look to these five suburban divisions to secure more than $50,000.

Meeting all manner of need, without regard for race, creed, or color, The Salvation Army's work is twofold. It ministers to the body through social service and welfare activities and to the mind and soul by its character-building and religious leadership.

The social service functions include support of a Fresh Air Camp for needy children; a day nursery, where children whose parents work or seek work are cared for; the Ivy House, where live boys and girls from broken homes or wards of the court; emergency relief activities, supplying food, clothing, and fuel to families in want; industrial shops and stores, where cast-off household goods are made salable, and sold; a women's home and hospital, and a men's hotel.

The Salvation Army is not a beneficiary of the United Campaign or does

RED CROSS AIDING 31 MORRISVILLE FAMILIES

Social Service Department Helps to Adjust Numerous Problems

WORKER PAYS 406 VISITS

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 23—Thirty-one families of ex-service men and civilians are under the care of the Red Cross Social Service department, according to the annual report just issued by Mrs. Lottie Forsythe, chairman of that branch of work. During the year 19 families were assisted in adjusting their problems so that visits to their homes could be discontinued.
The attention to these cases were received from the State Veterans' Commission, American Legion, State Department of Welfare, Red Cross nurse, other Red Cross chapters and individuals.

Some of the problems presented, the report showed, included those of widowhood, desertion, unemployment, malnutrition, old age, physical and mental condition, economic distress caused by the loss of earning power and problems involving the care of children and many others.

Mrs. Forsythe and her committee was ably assisted by a special service worker from the headquarters of the Southeastern Chapter, Miss Marie L.
Holland, who made 406 visits helping families. Mrs. Forsythe stated the aim of the department is to preserve family life where it is threatened; to restore it where it has been broken, and to find for people whose homes cannot be restored the best possible substitute for normal family life.

During the year the committee held 29 conferences and many of the members made visits to the families in distress. Through liberal distribution of the Morrisville school children cod-liver oil was given to 49 needy children. Toys were given to 132 children

Name Mrs. C. Gardner As Head of Hulmeville P. T. A.

HULMEVILLE, Jan. 23—Now officers were chosen at the monthly business meeting of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association, held in the school house, last evening. Mrs.
Charles Gardner was named as president, succeeding Mrs. Lynn Schatzer.
Other officers include: Vice president, Miss Ann MacCorkle; recording secretary, Mrs. Walter Hahn; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Leon Comly; treasurer, Mrs. Earl Phipps.

The attendance banner was awarded to the room presided over by Miss Margaret Perry. This class-room and that of principal Lynn Schatzer had an equal representation of parents present last evening, but the former's percentage of representation according to the number of pupils was higher.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Schatzer; and later the 40 attending enjoyed refreshments served by Mrs. Earl Phipps and Mrs.
John Corrigan.

Selections by the school orchestra were enjoyed; and solo and duet numbers on the instruments were presented by some of the students. Miss June Thorpe pleased with a vocal solo.

PENNA. TOWN, HOME OF LONDON, IN SPOT-LIGHT

Presidential Candidate's Picture Hangs in Nearly Every

WEST MIDDLESEX

By Frederick N. Polangin
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1936, I. N. S.)

WEST MIDDLESEX, Jan. 18—(INS)— Fame, and political prominence, are beating a path to this little Western Pennsylvania village, a path that stretches from the Kansas plains.

For it was here that Alf Landon, Governor of Kansas and a Republican Presidential possibility, was born. And it is here that local pride has launched a campaign to bring the nation's highest honor to the transplanted native son.

Two signs greet the visitor as he enters the community. One, at the very entrance, proclaims:

"Home of Alf Landon."

The other, tacked conspicuously to a huge house in the center of town, announces in bold letters:

"Headquarters—Landon Committee."

The man who swapped red ink for black in Kansas government, balanced the budget and reduced taxes, was born in the Methodist Episcopal parsonage, a small structure three doors from the "Landon - for - President" headquarters.

That only the first two weeks of Governor Landon's life were spent here is of but passing moment to the townsfolk, and of even less to Herbert S. Williams, secretary of the executive committee which is whipping up sentiment for the Kansas Governor. So proud are those "who knew him when" they have joined wholeheartedly in supporting Williams' efforts in behalf of a native Pennsylvanian.

"We're going to make Alf Landon president," confidently asserted Williams who is concentrating on a mail campaign to make the Keystone State Landon-conscious. "I'm sending letters to people all over Pennsylvania telling about Alf Landon."

"He only lived here two weeks, but we feel like he's one of us. Look what he's done for Kansas. There's a man."

Williams displayed the envelope in which his campaign literature is enclosed. From the upper left hand corner, in bold face type, stands out this legend:

"Alf Landon for President."

"Alf's mother," said Williams, "was the daughter of our preacher. She married Landon, an oil man, and went somewhere into Ohio for a while, but she came back before Alf was born."

"And right there in the parsonage" —pointing to the modest little home three doors away—"was born the next Pride of the United States."

Pride shone too from the eyes of Mrs. Mary Reed, now 85, when asked whether she recalled Alf Landon.

"I helped bring him into the world," she smiled. "I was there as a nurse."

"There were Dr. J. B. Livingston, Mrs. Landon's mother and myself at the parsonage when he came. He weighed about eight pounds."

"Oh, but he was a bright little fellow, as bright as a new dollar, we knew he'd be somebody some day."

The townsfolk saw the infant only rarely thereafter. Mrs. Reed said, because the mother took her baby back to Ohio after a few weeks, although she made occasional visits to her father until he retired from active ministerial work.

The aged nurse now lives alone in a modest, red-framing home on the edge of town, spending most of her time on a wicker throne rug.

"I never did know what I was going to do with that big piece," she admitted, "but I guess it was intended for a big place like the White House."

A picture of Governor Landon, said Ralph Allen, 78, another old-timer, hangs in almost every living room in town. He, too, has his recollections of the Landon family.

Search for Girl in New York

Harrisburg, Jan. 23—Search for Marjorie Richards, missing 13-year-old daughter of District Attorney and Mrs.
Carl E. Richards, of Dauphin County, swung eastward toward New York today, when it was rumored a girl answering her description purchased a bus ticket for New York at White House, N. J. E. F. Wright, of Easton, reported picking her up near Phillipsburg yesterday morning. She rode with him to White House where he said she purchased a bus ticket, stating she planned "to visit an aunt in New York."

The missing girl disappeared from her home Tuesday night.

Two "G-men" from the Philadelphia office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, it was learned, are working on the case.

While State Police avoided a confirmation of a kidnapping theory, Richards expressed a fear she had been abducted by a gang whom he had prosecuted as District Attorney.

Late King's Body Taken To London

Sandringham, England, Jan. 23—To the swing of a highland cornish skirled by the King's Own Pipes, the body of George V was taken today from the countryside he loved so well to receive the last homage of his capital and kings of other countries.

Slightly limping, bowed by grief and cares of his nation, King Edward walked behind the body of his father from the village to the train at Wolverton Royal station.

Queen Mary followed in a carriage broken down at last and sobbing bitterly.

It was high noon when the bagpipes gave way to the strains of Chopin's funeral march played by the Grenadiers' band, as the cortege wound its way to the station. Five minutes later the train slipped out of the station for London.

Simple last services conducted by the Bishop of Norwich and the rector of the church, Rev. A. R. Fuller, ended the two-day period in which the dead King lay in the little chapel of St.
Mary Magdalene, guarded by the King's Foresters, and viewed by hundreds of country folk.

$123,000,000 To Improve Highways

Easton, Jan. 23—More than $123-000,000 in State and Federal funds is being used in the greatest highway improvement program ever undertaken in Pennsylvania. Roy Brown-miller, Deputy Secretary of the State Highway Department today declared here.

"Although Federal expenditures are designed to provide employment, the Pennsylvania Department of Highways is passing projects which are also a saving to the taxpayer," Brown-miller told members of the Northampton County Motor Club.

TELL THE PEOPLE

Within two days, two attempts on the part of congressmen to keep information from the people were noted in the press.

Monday, a frank letter written Aug. 31, 1915, by President Wilson to Colonel House was revealed at the session of the senate munitions investigating committee. In it the president referred to Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, in these words: "You know I trust neither his accuracy nor his sincerity." The committee, on second thought, wanted this reference expunged from the letter, but it was already on the press wires and the move was abandoned.

Now why, in the name of all that's wonderful, should President Wilson's opinion of Bernstorff be kept secret? It was a perfectly valid opinion.

Tuesday, Senator Couzens refused to be held to secrecy regarding an important admission by Secretary Morgenthau about the probable effect of the bonus on the public debt. It is gratifying to find at least one member of the senate who believes the people are entitled to all the facts, no matter how much embarrassment the revelation may cause. Those facts could not long be concealed, in any case. But it is very discouraging to learn that the great majority of the senate finance committee wanted to keep essential information from the people.

DOCTOR LOOKS AT SHERRY

"There is much to be said in their favor," says the London Lancet of London's fashionable sherry parties. "They happen at the time of the day when the worker is most ready for and most favorably affected by refreshment. He and she are often tired. Conversation and cheerful feelings come easily. People return to dinner from the party probably none the worse for its crowded atmosphere and certainly all the better for its many contacts."

It is to be noted that the Lancet's blessing is confined specifically to the London "sherry party." There is no reference to that function's trans-Atlantic cousin, the "cocktail party." It may be argued, that the distinction is unimportant, and that the Lancet would hand down the same decision if cocktails rather than sherry were before the medical court. But that is sheer assumption. The Lancet was not in ignorance of the existence and prevalence of cocktail parties when it showered kindly praise on the parties where sherry flows.

More than insular prejudice is involved here. While conservative Britons are disposed to look askance at the American predilection for mixed drinks, medical judgment rather than national sentiment doubtless swayed the Lancet. In rebuttal it may be urged that the Lancet said nothing against cocktail parties. Well, neither did we.

Latest reports are that many who were intrigued by the idea of going into the business of not raising hogs have definitely abandoned all thought of it.

A new streamlined train in the West has been named the Mark Twain. It is expected to exert a powerful appeal on innocents abroad.

HURRAH.. HURRAY! I'VE LOST 40 POUNDS

They made me tired—all those slender women who were telling me not to eat potatoes and pastry and ice-cream! They ate the same things I did—yet they never gained a pound! But I fooled them! I knew something was wrong with my body, so I took 4 tablets a day containing a simple corrective for abnormal obesity prescribed by doctors the world over. Results were amazing. I didn't diet, exercise, or drain my system by taking drastic purgatives. But gradually excess fat disappeared. Today I'm trim and slender.

That, in brief, is what thousands of women who have reduced the Marmola way might tell you if they had the chance. Would you like to learn their secret? Then buy a package of Marmola, read the simple directions, and start at once to get rid of that burdensome fat!

Marmola is put up by one of the best known medical laboratories in America. Since 1907 men and women have purchased more than 20 million packages. Could any better recommendation be had?

Start today! You will soon experience Marmola's benefits. When you have gone far enough, stop taking Marmola. And you will bless the day when you first discovered this marvelous reducing agent!

Marmola is on sale by all dealers—from coast to coast! (Advertisement)

HOLLYWOOD—All the towns of the studios can't keep aviation-crazy Hollywood from learning to fly.

Dozens of film folk have won pilot's licenses and, now, 17-year-old Anne Shirley would join the list. Indeed the R-K-O starlet already has begun to take lessons from Cecil Hamilton, who, at 19, is said to be America's youngest woman transport pilot. This is the girl who won third place in the recent Chatterbox air derby.

The seldom photographed Doris Duke Cronwell toured the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot for several hours the other day, with few recognizing her as the tobacco heiress. So few, in fact, that she and her party were nearly chased off the "Wife Versus Secretary" set by an assistant director. Her identity being established just in time, the socialite chatted with Jean Harlow about sports and climbed a stepladder to watch the company enact several scenes.

Is this new? Omar Klam, the fashion designer, says it is. He has made for Merle Oberon a tailored evening costume, very stunning as we saw it the other day on the "Three Threes" set. The skirt is of scarlet lame, but the jacket, coral and gold and of the same material, is the really sensational feature. It is short, falling midway of the shapely Oberon hips, but is strictly tailored with wide lapels descending to a deep V. Miss Oberon wears a scarf beneath the jacket but we are told a blouse will do just as well.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Constance Levitt, Boston: Fred Keating says his interest in magic began at the age of 12 when he mastered a knife-swallowing trick. This and several card manipulations were taught to him by Sidney Lenz, the bridge authority and amateur magician.

The London fan magazine editor who wanted a strand of Joan Crawford's hair to put in every copy of his magazine was turned down, but the editor of Mein-Film, a Vienna publication, has advanced a more reasonable proposition to Luise Rainer, and she'll oblige. He wants a pressed blossom from the star's Hollywood garden to go in each copy of his magazine. The petite Luise has ordered her garden stripped of blooms to fill the order.

Studios still raid Broadway for playwrights as fast as they show promise, but the producers back there can't get a reliable source that William Anthony McGuire is fed up with Hollywood and will resign from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as soon as "The Great Ziegfeld" is previewed. He has his eyes turned towards Broadway and even now is weighing a half-dozen attractive offers.

What two actor brothers recently staged a battle in a Hollywood cafe, which is the real explanation of an injury one of them is reported to have sustained in an entirely different manner?

HOLLYWOOD TICKER-TAPE—

The Santa Fe Chief was held 30 minutes in Kansas City the other day, so Gladys Swarthout could rush to the Newman theater and make a personal appearance at the world premiere of "Rose of the Rancho". Gladys is a Kansas City girl. . . . The Baltimore Bowl here is installing a gadget that will turn the stay-up-laters goggle-eyed. It's a glass gold fish tank, standing on a pedestal and illuminated by spotlights, in which a nude mermaid (seven feet in length) will appear to swim among the fish. It's a teleillusion, using a full-sized girl, but try and figure out how they do it. . . . Alice White and George Givot took off on the same plane for the east. He went to Washington, D. C., to make personal appearances and she to London for a picture. . . . Mary Ellis' Hollywood dentist can take a bow. She endured a tooth ache for the last two weeks of her London show and waited further until she reached California just to have him treat it. . . . And Clark Gable is helping finance the introduction of Chuka partridges, natives of the Himalayan mountains, into the higher California hunting grounds.

DID YOU KNOW—That Luise Rainer is the author of a published book of Viennese recipes?

personal staff and often by the Prince himself. In this way, he kept his liaison with the people he loved.

But, inspired by the sheer pace of this vivid personality, we have progressed, of course, well beyond our story, which properly begins in June of 1894, in the famous White Lodge of Richmond, nestling amid its quiet oaks. Here the then Duke of York, later to become King George the Fifth, has ceased his restless pacing, to and fro, and has settled down to some degree of composure again. A son and heir has been born to him.

Messages and congratulations pour in from all sides. One is from the then Prince of Wales, later King Edward the Seventh, who not long afterward rushes in, all aglow. Another message is from the great Queen, Victoria herself. Never demonstrative, her felicitations are almost fervent and she announces that she is on her way to see the new born with her own eyes.

And suddenly, the quiet, shy father realizes that the infant is more than a son. One day, in fact, he is to sit upon the throne of England.

"I remember Anna (the Governor's mother) the first time they were here," he said. "That was from 1866 to 1869 and Anna was just little, like myself. They left in '69 but came back again from Marietta, O., where she had been living with her husband. Her baby was born September 9, 1887, and they christened him Alfred Mossman Landon."

And Allen remembers one other thing—perhaps an omen—that West Middlesex was a thriving village when Alf Landon arrived. He said:

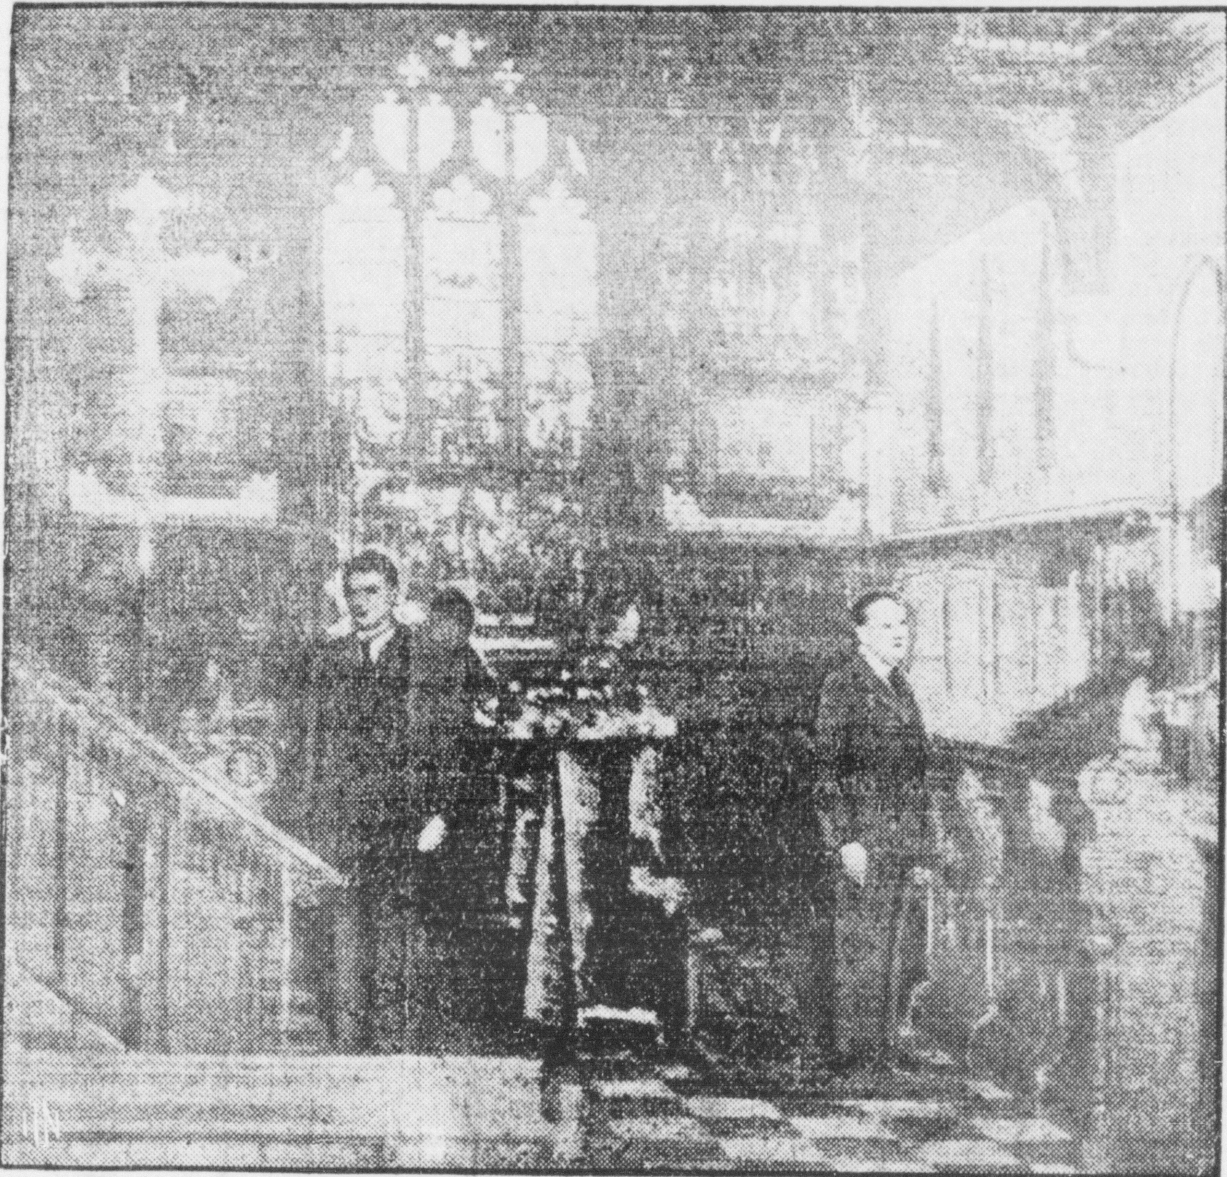

"Alf came in good times."

Sale, Ho

Smart women watch carefully for January "White Sales"—because they want the money they spend to go further. They know that this month brings unusual chances to buy . . . big, fluffy, handsome towels . . . fine, soft, smooth sheets—and all the rest. Things that make living easier and richer. Things that former generations couldn't have had at any price!

Watch the advertisements in this paper for news of white sales and for news of all sorts of other smart buys. Read every issue straight through—no point in missing something you want. . . . And don't stop watching. Every month, every week brings new word of rare bargains, of things worth a lot more to you than they cost. Watch. . . .

THRIFT WEEK

A SPECIAL period set aside for the inculcation of Thrift practices and repeated each year at this time in the hope that its messages may provide momentum for the continuance of such practices throughout the year.

Self-preservation is instinctive in all living things.

The smallest animals and insects provide their stores against periods of scarcity. In humans it takes on higher impulses and purposes . . . ambition, prosperity, independence for future years. Upon these Thrift is based. While Thrift implies savings it in no way infers hoarding.

and fruit was provided for 28 families during the holiday season.

In her annual report just issued, Miss Laura Koch, the community nurse, shows that 863 visits were made during the year. Of these, 536 were made to 119 ill patients, 46 to two tuberculosis patients, 87 to 22 convalescent patients, 73 to 15 maternity cases, and 73 to 13 new born babies.

There were 81 patients given care, 12 paid in full at $1 per visit, eight paid part fee, and 76 were paid for by insurance companies.

The report also showed 198 child welfare visits made in behalf of small children. There were 91 babies attending the well baby clinic, and 12% were new cases. The nurse made 213 visits to schools and homes of school children, 274 pupils were inspected in school and teachers were assisted with class room inspection. There were 172 social service and adult supervision visits made and 73 visits were made by the nurse in behalf of general activities.

In addition to her regular work in connection with the duties of the community nurse, Miss Koch attended the meetings of the Red Cross nursing committee and Social Service committee, Red Cross Chapter Nurses' conferences, Red Cross Institutes and national convention, also meetings of the Bucks County Public Health Nurses, Bucks County Public Health Association and Child Welfare meetings.

In addition to the nursing care and health teaching and supervision, the types of services given as shown in the report were as varied as the homes in which they were needed. Occasionally it was necessary to find ways and means of procuring actual necessities, such as food, fuel, and clothing. Medical, surgical, maternity, dental and central assistance was frequently needed; also orthopedic, tuberculosis, mental diagnosis and treatment including the need of medicines, dressings, X-ray and laboratory tests, orthopedic appliances, etc.

Medical attention was procured for eight persons, three per cent of which were social disease cases; surgical treatment for two children, maternity care for three mothers, correction of eye defects for eight persons, two for whom hospital admission and extended treatment was needed. Dental corrections were given to five persons, orthopedic treatment for two persons, chest examinations for five persons, mental examinations for one child, other hospital care for two and hospital dispensary treatment for 12 persons. One child was given admission to a tuberculosis camp and furnished transportation.

PROCLAMATION

Notice to Owners of Dogs

WHEREAS, there is reason to believe that the disease of rabies or hydrophobia exists or is likely to occur in the Borough of Bristol by reason of the fact that a number of dogs within the Townships adjacent to said Borough have recently been bitten by a dog suffering from said disease, and the nature of the disease is such that all dogs within the limits of said Borough must be suspected of being capable of spreading the same, and the welfare and the safety of the citizens require that all dogs within said Borough which have been so bitten shall immediately be killed, and all other dogs for the present be quarantined.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, CLIFFORD L. ANDERSON, Burgess of the Borough of Bristol, by virtue of the authority in me vested as such Burgess under the law, in pursuance of the provisions under an Ordinance of the Borough of Bristol entitled "An Ordinance Granting Authority to the Burgess to Issue his Proclamation Enforcing the Ordinance Controlling the Running at Large of Dogs within the Borough Limits" enacted the Ninth day of January A. D. 1882, do hereby proclaim and order that all dogs actually bitten by or which have been fighting with a mad dog, or exposed to the said disease of rabies, shall immediately be killed by the owners thereof, and in case the owner of any such dog shall neglect or refuse to put such dog to death immediately, legal proceedings against such owner for such neglect or refusal will at once be instituted and such dog ordered to be killed as provided by the Act of Assembly of April 1, 1834, P. L. 161.

That every dog that has been in contact with or close proximity to a mad dog, or exposed to the disease of rabies, although not known to have actually been bitten, shall be strictly quarantined on the premises of the owner and shall be muzzled with a well fitting muzzle which shall effectually prevent biting, and shall be tied up, chained and safely secured by a heavy collar around the neck attached to a substantial chain, which shall be safely fastened to a secure place, and shall be so tied up, muzzled and secured for a period of one hundred days from the date hereof.

All dogs within the Borough of Bristol are hereby declared to be in the state of quarantine and must be strictly confined or firmly secured on the premises of their owners, and not allowed to run at large or enter upon the streets, lanes or highways of the said Borough; PROVIDED, HOWEVER, that dogs which have not been exposed to said disease may be permitted upon the said streets or highways when led by a leash and muzzled with a well fitting muzzle which will effectually prevent biting.

This quarantine shall remain in force for one hundred days from the date hereof unless sooner removed by me or other competent authority.

The word dog as used in this proclamation shall be taken and construed to include not only dogs but bitches as well.

Owners of dogs are notified and warned that a disregard of this proclamation or the permitting of dogs to run at large within the said Borough without being led by leash and properly muzzled may lead to the destruction of their dogs, and that they themselves may be proceeded against in accordance with law and the above cited Ordinance.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the corporate seal of the Borough of Bristol this Twenty-first day of January A. D. 1936.

CLIFFORD L. ANDERSON, Burgess of the Borough of Bristol.

Attest: WILLIAM J. LEFFERTS, Secretary.

PROCLAMATION

Owners of dogs take notice: Whereas it is established that rabies or hydrophobia exists in Bristol Township;

And whereas: said disease is infectious to human beings and all species of animals;

And whereas: By Act of Assembly it is mandatory upon all owners of dogs to comply with the provisions of the law and any rules and regulations that may be promulgated by the Department of Agriculture of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to prevent the spread of a contagious or infectious disease.

Therefore: The supervisors of Bristol Township do this day, January 21, 1936, hereby notify all owners of dogs in Bristol Township:

1st—To securely confine dogs upon the premises of the owners.

2nd—To obtain licenses for all dogs according to law and have same attached to a collar which shall at all times remain on the animal.

Failure to comply with the provisions set forth in this Proclamation will be subject to the action of the State Department of Agriculture.

This Proclamation remains effective until revoked by the proper authorities.

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly

(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing for International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 26.—For Little Evenings, necklines are still way up around the collar-bone. But for those Great Big Evenings, if you want to look Dernier Cri. Last Word, and all that, the first thing you've got to drop is that Neckline.

Yes, sir and madame, formal décolletage have gone low again—and when I say low that's what I mean. For instance, the very newest gowns, have necklines slashed clear to the waist . . . with both sides of the bodice gathered full, and extending upward narrowing as they go, into a halter or slender straps marching down a naked back. You'll see this mode in a fashion show featured in "Colleen," when a mannequin wears a pale beige crepe gown with slender skirt, under a box-jacket of bold-beige metal cloth which she obligingly removes for you to note the neckline—if any.

Another new style trick that gives the low-necked effect as an illusion rather than a reality, is to have a tight dark satin foundation, over which black or white lace is posed, shoulders and chest being covered, while the low line of the slip peeps from underneath the lace. This can either be a straight, camisole top-line or a deep V. Dolores Del Rio wore it first in "Meet the Dukes." . . . the revealing top being a V-big collar dropping to the waist-line front and back, and wide over the shoulders, in starched white lace.

Also in the "Colleen" style revue is a gown of black and gold design, slim to the knee where a drape gives a hobble effect, later sweeping to the floor and catching itself up in back to a puff that starts the train. For this dress, the V-neck is extremely low, with wide beaded bands on either side reaching out to cover the upper-arm, while straps to the waist also give a V in back.

Moyenage gowns, coming into popularity, give another type of low décolletage—square-cut in front, as low as the law allows. Gale Sondergaard, newcomer from the stage, wears black velvet with puffed sleeves, full skirt and low, square neck caught with clips, in "Anthony Adverse" . . . it's really a period gown, but could be worn "as is" today and make its mark on society . . . which shows how good the mode must be.

Still another style, in gayer mood, is that endorsed by Ruby Keeler. One of Ruby's latest frocks is black and white checked taffeta, demure from full skirt, peplum edged with pleating, little belt closed with a tailored bow . . . and a low, square neck set off by big white organdie epaulettes, edged with pleats and extending wide over the shoulders, only to drop away in back.

There are many such ways to gain the new formal décolleté . . . some modest, like Ruby's . . . some daring. Take your choice, but see that you have it one way or another. Nothing else stamps your frock as so entirely new!

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Let's do a bit of lolling! It's vacation-time. Most of us, you know, take our clothes with such deadly seriousness . . . and that's all right, too, for as Dolores Del Rio says, "Being well-dressed is a career in itself." But just today, let's be casual; let's get ready to play; let's consider play-togs.

Now you don't have to be planning a cruise in "southern waters" . . . or to any resort at all . . . to get in on the new "playthings." You can stay home, where it's cold as Christmas, and still be in the swing. For you, there are festive lounging modes—as, to wit, the snow-white serge, one-piece, very tailored pajama suit snatched from a Hollywood Boulevard window by Margaret Lindsay—with a bright red kerchief running under its turndown collar. These also come in carduroy.

You can swim in the heated pool at the women's club—and still be swank in one of the new bathing suits: black crepe satin, with panties and brief skirt, and top slashed in a narrowing V clear to the gathered waist, like the newer evening frocks.

If you're "Snowed Under," you can ski or skate on your local pond, in an outfit similar to the one Patricia Ellis wears in the picture of that name—black wool pants tucked into heavy, ankle-high shoes; bright red, turtle-necked sweater, gay blue, green and white stripes, and cross-stitched peasant embroidery; with cap and gloves to match.

You can sun bathe—when there's any sun—in brief tunics over attached tights, with evening dress tops, in fancy woven or printed fabrics. Or you can lounge in one of the new Robinson Crusoe costumes, which display short, skirt-length trousers, shirt and jacket, all outlined with fringe. There's even a silly, peaked hat for this one—just like our marooned story-book friend made to protect himself from the sun.

And speaking of protection, the hooded cape has been lifted from evening modes, and placed squarely on the beach.

Take heed. There's a greater variety of play clothes this year than ever before . . . high, imaginative new styles that'll make you forget dull care and join the rollicking crowds. Best of all, they're designed for every kind of weather . . . for energetic sports, and plain and fancy resting. You don't have to wait for spring!

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS

"Poor Man's Fruit Cake" is the name given to a delicious fruit cake which is a pleasure to make, and tempting to the palate.

The result of the spicy and "fruity" ingredients is a loaf of goodness, that is excellent if you entertain, or if your family alone is the group which will consume it.

Following are the ingredients:

2 tablespoons cocoan
¾ cup of lard
2 cups small raisins
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon each of nutmeg, ginger, allspice, cloves, and cinnamon.

Put these in a large pan to boil with four cups of water. Cook for 30 minutes. When cooled well, add flour to make a stiff cake batter.

Last of all, add three teaspoons of baking soda in ¼ cup of boiling water. Beat well.

Bake in solid loaf pan in slow oven for 1½ hours.

BENSALEM GAINS FIRST VICTORY IN CO. LEAGUE

By Stanley Vandegrift
CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Jan. 23.—The Bensalem quintet won its first victory in the Lower Bucks County League, Tuesday night, defeating Yardley by the score of 37-19. Yardley started off strong by building up a 13-10 lead at the end of the first quarter, but Bensalem started to rally and was never headed after that.

Schrieber led the victors with three field goals, and eight fouls for 14 points, while Parks led Yardley with 11 points.

On Friday evening the Fallsington first and second teams will play Bensalem's first and second teams on Bensalem's floor.

SEXTET, BRISTOL HIGH, BOWS TO RIDER TEAM

Fighting valiantly to the last, the Bristol high lassies were defeated by the girls of Rider College, Trenton, N. J., Tuesday night.

At the end of the first quarter, the local girls were leading 3 to 1, but by the half their opponents had gained the advantage with a score of 13 to 7.

In spite of the spectacular field goals made by Pauline Napoli in the third quarter, the Trenton girls held the lead when the final whistle blew.

Acting captain Napoli was the high scorer for Bristol, making six field goals and four fouls, while Julie Parker led the winners with 12 two-pointers and two gift throws.

The Bristol girls had played Rider's before in Trenton, where they were also defeated. Both contests were practice games.

The next game, with Southampton, will be on Friday night on the home floor. Under the new game rules, faster playing is encouraged.

NEW PRICES EFFECTIVE FOR CAGE LEAGUE TILTS

The new price rates of the Bristol Amateur Basketball League will go into effect tonight as the first half race comes to a close. The admission to ladies and children has been reduced while the gentlemen pay the same rate.

The St. Ann's team, with nine straight losses will attempt to upset the league dope when it meets the Odd Fellows in the first half finale. A victory for the Saints over the Oddies will make the finish a three-cornered tie, with the Third Ward Rangers, Moore, and Odd Fellows as the contesting teams.

In their last meeting the St. Ann's team lost out to the Odd Fellows by

New Faces on the New Braves

By BURNLEY

One of the most important National League trades of the off-season was the rather elaborate swap engineered between two more or less futile teams, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Braves.

The Dodgers received Randy Moore and Ed Brandt in exchange for four players: Al Lopez, Tony Cuccinello, Ray Benge and Bobby Reis.

It would certainly seem that the Braves got a break as far as this exchange is concerned, for the departing players, Brandt and Moore, were anything but sensational last season, while in Al Lopez they are getting one of the best back-stops in the senior loop, while Tony Cuccinello is a capable infielder who should strengthen the Boston team's inner defense.

Young Bobby Reis may develop into a first-class pitcher with more experience, having only recently been switched from an infielder into a moundsman.

The lowly Boston outfit, which almost went literally to the dogs last spring, when Judge Fuchs threatened to turn the Braves' field into a site for greyhound races, will be under new ownership this season, with the erstwhile Red Sox magnate, Bob Quinn, at the helm.

The genial Bob has decided to revamp the team entirely, and is even going to scrap the name of Braves, having announced that he will hold a contest to decide on a new name for the Beantown outfit.

However, the fans won't worry about a new name as long as the team displays a new brand of baseball.

the margin of a single tally so that the Black and White team fears the Purple and Gold which is due to strike its stride.

Charlie Hendricks' Y. M. A. clan will meet the Third Ward team in the opener. The Y's are battling for fourth place and need this victory to top the second division teams. Hendricks has already strengthened his club for the second half by procuring the services of Alex Barclaw and Whitey Flitton, both Trentonians.

The second half race will open Monday night with the Hibernians playing the Moose and the Y. M. A. meeting the Odd Fellows.

Opening tap-off tonight takes place at eight o'clock.

Record-Shattering Cold Wave Grips Bristol, State

The Middle-West was promised relief today from the sub-zero wave which suddenly swept out of Canada, as the Arctic weather moved south and east along the Atlantic seaboard. Warned by the blizzards in the Middle-West, the East was prepared for the sub-zero temperature and driving snow prevailing in some sections today.

Buffalo, N. Y., was practically isolated by the worst snow storm and blizzard in the city's history. Railroad schedules were abandoned, and highway traffic was at a standstill as driving frigid winds piled snow in drifts as high as four feet.

Twenty-five deaths were reported due to the frigid blast which caught the West and continued to bring unprecedented suffering.

EVEN MOTHER NATURE...

protects her children.

In the winter time, when winds blow and snows fall, the fur bearing animals are well protected from the elements by a thick coating of fur; and then when it gets warmer, and summer is fast approaching, they shed their fur so that they may be more comfortable during the long hot spells. Each year this process goes on, growing new fur for protection and shedding the old for comfort.

Mother Nature is one of our most striking examples of the use of protection. Just see how she protects even a small acorn by placing a hard shell on it so that it may survive and, eventually, grow into a mighty oak.

If Mother Nature protects HER children why don't YOU protect yours? It's impossible for you to put a shell around them for protection but you can insure them... and, after all, insurance is nothing more than protection.

Good old Mother Nature... she always knows best. Why not take a tip from her and insure YOUR children TODAY.
